

I am appealing to you, that you do not implement any Telephone Privacy Act that would lessin Indiana's Telephone Privacy Act. I signed up for the "No-Call List" which became effective in January. Since this time I have only received a handful of solicitation phone calls, allowing me to have a peaceful evening at home. Even with caller ID from the phone company, many of these phone calls came in as no ID. As a result, I would answer them, only to be badgered by a pushy operator at the other end trying to sell me something I did not want. The most annoying of these calls came from other long distance companies wanting me to switch my long distance carrier. I only spend about $5 a month in long distance, so why would I want to switch to a plan that costs $4 just to say I have that particular company as my carrier. I would explain this and ask that my name be removed from their calling list, only to receive another call 4-5 days later from the same company. My time at home is to be spent enjoying my family, not repeatedly saying "NO" to some phone solicitor. Please, I beg of you, do not inact ANY proposal that will allow these phone calls to be made again. With the post office in such terrible financial trouble, let the solicitors mail thier information to me so I may look at when I see fit.
